

| SOB: NETS WEAKSIDE PIN-DOWN | | SOB: NETS WEAKSIDE PIN-DOWN | |
|--|--|--|--|
| | | | |
| 1) This is the set that Brooklyn ran at the end of a OT playoff game to send the game into double OT. 2) Box set, the Brooklyn Nets put Derron Williams on the nearside block. He had 30+ points and the Bulls were anticipating the ball coming to him. They set the pin down on the nearside 3) They put Joe Johnson away from the ball and steps off the block to get depth. | 1) Williams was unable to get the ball off of the pin-down, so immediately they get Evans to set a backscreen. The defense is very locked in which opens up the lane. 2) Johnson now has angle to use the weakside screen, especially since the defense had locked into him as well. 3) He caught the ball at the top of the key and hit a runner at the buzzer. | 1) Williams was unable to get the ball off of the pin-down, so immediately they get Evans to set a backscreen. The defense is very locked in which opens up the lane. 2) Johnson now has angle to use the weakside screen, especially since the defense had locked into him as well. 3) He caught the ball at the top of the key and hit a runner at the buzzer. | 1) Williams was unable to get the ball off of the pin-down, so immediately they get Evans to set a backscreen. The defense is very locked in which opens up the lane. 2) Johnson now has angle to use the weakside screen, especially since the defense had locked into him as well. 3) He caught the ball at the top of the key and hit a runner at the buzzer. |