

- 1) The University of Illinois ran this play late in the game tonight in their NIT match-up with Boston University.
- 2) They were able to get the ball to their best driver - Rayvonte Rice with a hand-off.

- 1) As soon as the hand-off occurred, the post player opposite of the action sprints to the top of the key to set the ball screen.
- 2) By starting the post player low & then sprinting to the action - it prevents the defender to jump out hard to hedge.

- 1) Illinois put their best 3 point shooter on the opposite wing, now x3 has a big decision to make.
- 2) In this play he played the shooter which allowed Rice to drive the lane for the finish.
